6 Read Diana's predictions about the future. Then, answer the questions.

I think the world will be very different in the future. For example, everyone will live in tall buildings. Of course, there will be new technology and people will probably do less work. For example, we'll read digital books, not paperback books. There won't be any newsagents because everyone will download newspapers and magazines. Robots will help us at home, but people will go to work in offices and factories because they will need money. It's nice to think that students will stay at home all day and won't go to school, but it will be very boring to stay at home: you need to go to school to make friends, and it is interesting to learn new things. I think students will go to school.

I think the big difference will be that people won't use cars. There won't be any petrol, so everybody will use bikes instead. That means that people will be thin and healthy. Only special people like presidents or rich people like pop stars will use planes. People will go on holiday in their own country again. People will use the Internet to see different places like India and Bali. They won't fly there. Also, everyone will think that jeans are boring. People will wear formal clothes again.

Where will people live?
People will live in tall buildings.

a What kind of books will people read?

b Will robots work in offices?

c What are two good things about school?

d Who will travel by plane?

e What clothes will people think are boring?
